

BEING INNOVATIVE AT WORK

Actual innovation instead of theoretical innovation

his course is unique. Other courses ensure participants understand the meaning of Innovation at work. This course gets participants to dip their toes into actually being innovative. Participants are encouraged to bring along a recurring issue to the workplace. Your facilitator will demonstrate proven innovative tools. Then participants are encouraged to use the tools to search for an innovative method of removing the recurring issue.

As innovative confidence grows, the final group activity will help participants discover how to turn ideas into products processes and service.

If you're seriously trying to make your people more innovative, then this is a must-do course. Workplace Innovation is an action rather than a contemplation.
